Travel north-west out of Brora on the minor road marked Balnacoil. Park near the main entrance to Gordonbush Lodge. About 20m west of this entrance, at a large turning area in the road, is an unmarked quad/Argo track leading north-east into the forest. Follow this track as it winds up through trees for about 1km. As it exits the forest, the track bends north-east again, and then continues to climb with views to Beinn Smeorail and Cnoc Cragaidh appearing. The track then merges with two other tracks; continue left towards Beinn Smeorail. At approx. 285650/911300 leave the track and head across boggy and heathery ground towards the bealach between the two hills with Beinn Smeorail on the left. After about 1km, a less steep approach to the summit opens up to the north, and a safe route should be taken to the summit, which is marked by a cairn.
